By Patrick McKee, WSLS 10 Today Anchor

(WSLS 10) - In What's News Today - Voters in Virginia's 74th House District will go to the polls Tuesday to elect their new representative in Richmond. The seat was vacated after Delegate Joe Morrissey resigned in December. He entered an Alford plea in connection with charges that he had a sexual relationship with a teenager. Democrat Ken Sullivan will face Republican Matt Walton. The 74th district cover Charles City County and parts of Henrico County and Richmond.

Miller-Motte Technical College holds a career fair and open house Tuesday at its campus at Tanglewood Mall. Forty local businesses will be present from the customer service, medical and health and beauty industries. The career fair is open to everyone. If you attend, you are asked to dress professionally and bring a lot of copies of your resume. It takes place this afternoon from 2-5 p.m.

High school business students from across the regional will be in Christiansburg Tuesday for the District Three Leadership Conference. More than 400 students will take part in role play scenarios. More than 60 college and business leaders will judge the competition. DECA is a high school marketing organization which prepares students for the marketing, finance, hospitality and management fields.

If you're new to town or thinking of moving into Martinsville or Henry County, you are invited to a newcomers' reception Tuesday night. You'll be able to meet new members of the community, learn about area clubs and organizations and discover attractions and events that are available. The reception is at the Martinsville-Henry County Visitor Center which is inside the New College Institute from 5:30 to 6:30.

Participants in the Fathers First Program through Total Action for Progress get a Reality Check on Tuesday. Goodwill Industries of the Valleys presents the Reality Check program to groups throughout the region to give a look at how far their paycheck will go. In the simulation, participants make decisions about their occupation, and the number of children they have then are given a paycheck to see just how far that money will go. The program gives young adults a fun way to see what's ahead in the real world.

If you are thinking about a career in the medical field, you will want to attend Tuesday night's Within Reach program the Virginia Tech Carilion School of Medicine. During the program, representative from VTC as well as the Jefferson College of Health Sciences and Virginia Western will discuss all the different health care careers available in the Roanoke Valley and offer tips on preparing for the fields. An information fair starts at 6 p.m. with the program from 7 to 8:30.

The Henry County Board of Supervisors will discuss Northside Comprehensive Community Development. The city received a nearly $1 million grant from the Virginia Department of Housing and Community Development. Tuesday night, the board is expected to approve the design and income plan for the project.

Also on the agenda in Henry County tonight, the Board of Supervisors will also recognize the Magna Vista High School football team. In December, Magna Vista defeated Lafayette High School to bring home the Virginia High School League Group 3A State Championship.

We get a first look at the new and improved Miller Center in Lynchburg. The building serves as the home of the Lynchburg Parks and Recreation offices. With the renovations complete, this will now be the home to near programs. Updated classroom space includes a dance and fitness studio. A updated 186 seat theater will allow for theater classes as well as films, lectures and meetings.
Danville City Council and the Danville School Board will hold a joint work session Tuesday night. The two groups will discuss the budget for the school system. Thirty percent of the budget for the school system comes from the local level. The meeting takes place Tuesday night at Galileo High School.