www.roanoke.com

Thursday, November 10, 2011

54°F

CHECK THIS OUT!

Movie reviews and listings

One year, $7.9 million later, Roanoke City Market Building reopens

BREAKING NEWS

Search

EVENTS CALENDAR

Nov 2011

S M T W T F S

1 2 3 4 5

6 7 8 9 10 11 12

Upcoming Events

- 11/11
  Storytime
A federal three-year grant for $240,750 was recently awarded to Jefferson College of Health Sciences for its work to address violence against women.
The three year grant will focus not only on improving safety of its student population, but also on the larger effort of educating health care workers and the community about responding to violence against women.

Jefferson College, which is owned by Carilion Clinic, first received a $235,201 from the U.S. Department of Justice in 2008 to start its Violence Can End, or VOICE, Program. The latest grant is a renewal of that initial grant.

To date VOICE has focused on organizing a number of educational efforts to improve how female victims of physical and sexual violence are treated. Those efforts include, providing ongoing training to the College’s staff who deal with situations involving violence against women, developing online resources and installing cameras, emergency phones and security doors on the college’s campus located inside Carilion Roanoke Community Hospital.

Sarah Higginbotham, the VOICE coordinator at Jefferson College, said that her goal with the new grant will be to continue to focus on training health care workers on how to identify and help victims of violence.

She said that often times even though injuries and health problems are documented, health care providers do not ask about violence or intervene. She pointed me to one study that found that only 6 percent of physicians ask their patients about possible domestic violence, but 88 percent admitted they knew they had female patients who had been abused.

“One of main focuses [of the grant] is to train providers on ways to recognize and respond to victims of violence,” she said.

Additionally the grant will be used to continue to improve the safety of the college’s students by looking at installing cameras, lighting and, emergency phones along South Jefferson Street. That’s because about 150 students are currently living in the newly renovated Patrick Henry.
About this blog

Med Beat covers medical issues, research and the business side of the health care industry, as reported by Sarah Bruyn Jones, who covers the business of medicine in Southwest Virginia for The Roanoke Times.

RSS feed

sarahbruynjones Roanoke researcher launches addiction recovery registry @VTCRI bit.ly/nH4Uyh 41 days ago · reply · retweet · favorite sarahbruynjones #Carilion ends blood supply relationship with Red Cross. Makes switch to Virginia Blood Services @CarilionClinic bit.ly/pj mDF6

42 days ago · reply · retweet · favorite sarahbruynjones Way to call out the new guy MT @MWStowe Welcome @Mike_TheBurgs - who started his day setting off building alarm.

43 days ago · reply · retweet · favorite sarahbruynjones #Carilion to stop sending baby formula home with new moms bit.ly/q0CW8S #rke #nrv @CarilionClinic #breastfeeding

43 days ago · reply · retweet · favorite

Join the conversation
Local advertising by PaperG

Comments

- Skip: Al, I think you are refering to the Reserve Ave “Cathedral”. Just like back in the Middle Ages,...
- Jon: I strongly dislike licorice.

  BOOooooooooooooooooo
- Concerned Citizen: I do not agree that it should be mandatory that healthcare workers receive the flu vaccine. Flu...
- Al: Skip, your right in my opinion but I go even further. The nation bitches about high medical costs but it’s...
- Paul M.: LOVE NRV, It is nice to see that you discourage those who may not have the education that you have from...

Categories

- All
  - Your health
  - Public health
  - Insurance
  - Lewis-Gale Medical Center
  - HCA
  - Health reform
  - Virginia Department of Health
  - Pharmaceuticals
  - Research
  - Carilion Clinic
  - Virginia Tech Carilion School of Medicine
  - Business news
  - Virginia Tech Carilion Research Institute
  - LewisGale Regional Health System
  - Edward Via College of Osteopathic Medicine
  - Health education

Recent entries

- Federal grant takes on violence against women
- The early impact of pediatricians requiring vaccines
- Tapping growth in health care to bring new economic development
- Happy halloween: beware of licorice
- Bring your questions about vaccines to area pediatricians
- Take a tour through bacterial cell biology
- Old Zoom Fitness will become Aetna offices

• Small business insurance plans offered by Aetna/Carilion partnership
• Businesses turn to third-party wellness programs
• Flu season is here

Archives

• November 2011
• October 2011
• September 2011
• August 2011
• July 2011
• June 2011
• May 2011
• April 2011
• March 2011
• February 2011
• January 2011
• December 2010
• November 2010
• October 2010

Site Index

News

• - Archives
• - Business
• - Columnists
• - Corrections
• - Virginia news
• - Local news
• - National news
• - The Burgs
• - Politics
• - Weather

Sports

• - Auto racing
• - Baseball
• - College sports
• - Golf
• - High school sports
• - Outdoors
• - UVa basketball
• - UVa football
• - VT basketball
• - VT football